LATEST NEWS & CURRENT CYCLE

The "Precarious" Era & Mainstage Momentum (2026-2027)

Following the release of their highly acclaimed debut album, "Precarious", Deus Culpa has evolved into a relentless touring machine. After completing a highly successful Q1 European run, the band returned to the UK in August 2026, delivering a blistering, crowd-commanding performance at Coalville's Savfest. The social media engagement and fan response from this return proved exactly what we already knew: the UK market is primed for this band.

The momentum is accelerating aggressively. Riding the high of their sold-out hometown headline show in Athens, the band is now targeting Eastern Europe with a focused December 2026 run through Bulgaria and Romania.

But 2027 is where the real elevation happens. Deus Culpa is officially confirmed for the highly anticipated 2027 Call of the Wild Festival, alongside a massive slot at London Rock Fest acting as support for guitar legend Michael Schenker. Armed with absolute confidence, a locked-in live sound, and undeniable stage presence, Deus Culpa is no longer just seeking festival slots, they are claiming them.

LIVE HIGHLIGHTS & MILESTONES

Proving ground: From local clubs to major international festivals.

- 2027 (UK): Confirmed mainstage slots for Call of the Wild Festival and London Rock Fest (Support for Michael Schenker).
- August 2026 (UK): Triumphant return to the UK festival circuit, marked by an explosive and highly praised set at Savfest.
- March 2026 (Athens, GR): Sold-out official "Precarious" album presentation, cementing overwhelming domestic drawing power and establishing the band's top-tier local status.
- Q1 2026 (Europe): Successfully completed their debut European Tour across the UK, with the support of Rockfiend Publications, Austria, Czech Republic, Poland, and Hungary.
- July 2024 (Bucharest, Romania): Performed at the prestigious Metalhead Meeting. Shared the stage with heavyweights like Judas Priest, Steel Panther, Doro, and Rotting Christ, proving they can hold their own among legends.

PRESS QUOTES & REVIEWS

"Deus Culpa delivers a modern metal set that plays with the contrast between uplifting melodies and socially conscious lyrics. The band, already known for their impressive and highly energetic live shows, returned to the stage and did it with absolute style."
(translated) – Depart.gr (Live Review)

"The band gave their best, giving another excellent live performance, opening this night in the best way possible. A band that has given their credentials several times and their dynamics were just what was needed to introduce the event!" – Metalwar.gr (Live Review)
